ODD FELLOWS.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge Begin Their Work,

After a Fitting Reception at the Tabor Grand.

Gov. Adams and Mayor Lee Welcome the Delegates.

Response Made by Grand Sire White.

Odd Fellows in Denver.

DENVER, September 19.—The convention of the sovereign grand lodge of the world, I. O. O. F. which assembled in Denver to-day, is one of the most important events in the history of Denver. For several days excursion trains have arrived from almost every state and territory bearing representatives and members of the order until hotels and boarding houses are overflowing with visitors, whose numbers are estimated at over ten thousand. The city has assumed a holiday appearance in honor of the occasion and all the principal streets and business houses were decorated with flags, bunting and banners, bearing emblems of the order. The strangers have been most courteously received by the members of lodges in this city, and extensive arrangements made for their entertainment while here, one feature of which will be mammoth excursions through the Grand and Black canons, and to all the principal cities and places of interest in the state.

At 8 o'clock this morning the grand lodge and grand encampment of Colorado assembled at Odd Fellows hall, Lawrence street. From thence they proceeded to the Windsor hotel and escorted the sovereign grand lodge to the Tabor Grand opera house, where a reception had been tendered by the state and city. Members of the grand lodge and ladies were seated upon the main floor and in the boxes. Grand Sire J. H. White occupied a position in the center of the stage. Governor Adams and Mayor Lee were seated upon his right and officers of the grand lodge and grand encampment of Colorado upon the left and in the rear.

After prayer by the grand chaplain, Rev. J. W. Venable, who fervently invoked divine guidance in the deliberations of the lodge, Governor Adams, who delivered a most eloquent address, welcomed ons behalf of the state. Mayor Lee followed on behalf of the city of Denver. Hon David Ringle grand master of Colorado, was then introduced, but was compelled to excuse himself from speaking on account of severe cold. Grand Secretary J. M. Norman was the next speaker. He spoke briefly reviewing the history of the order.

After the band rendered "Hail to the Chief," Chairman Cobb introduced Grand Sire J. H. White, who said:

I am sorry for my hearers on account of the manner in which I was introduced. It no doubt has caused them to [illegible] speech. I left my father's farm when but 13 years of age, and since that time I have been fighting the battles of life alone, and getting along as best I could. I received a common school education. I am not an orator and cannot talk to you after the eloquent manner of the gentlemen who have preceded me, and to whom God in his wisdom has vouchsafed eloquence and splendid education. I am only a plain, blunt man and not equal to the occasion. From the fullness of an overflowing heart and on behalf of half a million members of the order, I thank you, I thank you most cordially for this reception and magnificent display. You may think the word Colorado is unknown to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, but I assure you the word Colorado is known wherever Odd Fellowship is known. While the reception accorded us in Boston in 1886 surpassed everything of the kind I have ever known, this is the first time in the history of the sovereign grand lodge that we have received a continued ovation from the beginning of [illegible] present time. In Missouri we were met by our brethren and tendered a cordial reception, and in Kansas City it was one continued ovation. We were met on the confines of Colorado by your governor and cordially welcomed. You may not know what kind of men we are. We are not those [illegible] who are [illegible] cities, not those who are [illegible] in politics, we are just plain common men. There are few millionaires among us, but they are, we take men who have had to begin at the bottom of the ladder and work up. Most of us have had to hoe our own row. We have worked at the forge, in the shop and office. It is time now to conclude these exercises. We have work to do, and we came here to work. In conclusion, I return thanks to the Odd Fellows and citizens of this city. Be assured as long as we live the name of Colorado will ever remain with us.

The reception then adjourned. The sovereign grand lodge was called to order at the chamber of commerce hall [illegible] by the grand sire at 11:25. President [illegible] was introduced and made a speech of welcome, after which the lodge went into secret session, which lasted until 4 p. m. Adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Collision at Full Speed.

[illegible], September 19.—A horrible [illegible] on the C. M. & St. P. railway, [illegible] north of this city took place [illegible] this morning, the north and [illegible] passenger trains colliding [illegible]. Five persons were killed and many injured. All the victims [illegible] trainmen. None of the passengers [illegible] seriously injured.

The Mitchellstown Affair.

DUBLIN, September 19.—At Mitchellstown to-day the coroner resumed his inquest over the bodies of those slain during the recent conflict between the police and people. Sergeant Kerwin, of the constabulary, deposed that buckshot was fired from the barracks windows to defend policemen who were running to en-[illegible]

[illegible] been pursued by [illegible] the [illegible]. After two [illegible] was [illegible] Hercules was [illegible] denounced [illegible] to-day.

The Editors at Pueblo.

DENVER, September 19.—Members of the National Editorial association who are on a tour of the state reached Pueblo [illegible] Manitou [illegible]. They are very enthusiastic over the courtesies and courtesies extended them by citizens of Leadville, Colorado Springs, Pueblo and the towns of the [illegible] as well as the Rio Grande and Midland railway companies, some whose [illegible] the most [illegible] in the world. An entertainment is being arranged for them at Pueblo to-morrow.

Captain Mullet's Suicide.

WASHINGTON, September 20.—Captain Mullet of the revenue marine service, who committed suicide in San Francisco yesterday was a brother of ex-Supervising Architect Mullet. He was on act[ive] [illegible] months leave of absence on account of acute melancholia caused by malaria contracted in the service. Some [illegible] ago Captain Mullet was stationed at Mobile and after his return from that station he was examined by Dr. Gardner of St. Elizabeth's hospital for the insane and Surgeon General Hamilton of the marine hospital service and Dr. Murphy of the Columbia hospital, who found that he was suffering from acute melancholia and recommended that he be placed in an asylum. He improved however, during his stay in Washington and as his family were averse to putting him in an asylum he was allowed to go west to visit a brother and afterwards went to San Francisco to attend to private business. His friends have feared for some time that his malady would end in suicide.

Cleveland's Answer to El Paso.

EL PASO, Texas, September 19.—Following is the letter of reply from President Cleveland to the city council of El Paso inviting him to visit the city on his western tour:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14, 1887.

To Hon. Alex Blacker, Acting Mayor of El Paso, Texas:

DEAR SIR—The President is in receipt of your recent telegram conveying to him an invitation from the city council to visit El Paso during his contemplated trip to the west and south, and in reply I am directed to express his sincere appreciation of this pleasant evidence of the friendly regard of the people of your city. It would give him very great pleasure to accept of their hospitality were it practicable to do so, but the report that he intends visiting California is quite incorrect, as in fact he cannot extend his trip further west than Omaha and Kansas City, and will not therefore be within reach of El Paso. Conveying his regret that he will be unable to avail himself of the kind invitation tendered him, very respectfully,

D. S. LAMONT, Private Secretary.

[illegible]

NASHVILLE, Tenn., September 19.—The city is in a ferment over the presence of a large number of detectives centered here, many from outside the state and supposedly in the interest of the Louisville and Nashville railroad. People of the country vote next Thursday on a proposition to subscribe $1,000,000 to the Tennessee Midland railroad, which is to run from Memphis through Nashville to Bristol, where it connects with the Virginia Midland, thus giving a competing line east. The Louisville & Nashville has been fighting the proposition, and it is rumored that detectives are here to dog employees on the day and see that they vote with their employers. They are quartered at various hotels and boarding houses. There is intense feeling particularly as among the employed detectives are two named Laird and Collier who were indicted for the murder of half a dozen people during the riots at East St. Louis attending the great southwestern strikes.

A Southern Lynching.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., September 19.—Monroe Johnson, the negro gambler and ex-convict, having a grudge against a young man named Fleming at Leeds attempted recently to assassinate him. Going to Fleming's house he called him out. His sister, Mrs. Foster, went to the door and was shot and killed. Johnson escaped but was arrested a few days ago at Atlanta. He was sent [illegible] and yesterday [illegible] the train on which he was riding reached Leeds 16 miles from this city, where three masked men stopped the engine and got on. A dozen others entered the coach in which Johnson rode, and finding him chained and locked to a seat tore up the seat and carried the negro to a tree 200 yards away and hanged him. Johnson had confessed the murder.

The Bubble Burst.

NEW YORK, September 19.—The Uncompaghre Mining company has been dissolved and Henry L. Caldwell been appointed receiver by an order of Judge Donohue in the supreme court. The company has two mining claims the Mammoth lode and the Great Republic in Ouray county, Colorado, and its capital stock was $100,000. Sixty seven thousand shares of this stock had been placed all full paid among many shares among prominent New Yorkers. It appeared on the petition for dissolution made by Jos. T. Stephens the company's president, that the property of the company is not worth more than $1,000.

Cigar Makers' Convention.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., September 19.—The seventeenth annual convention of the Cigar Makers' International union opened to-day. Two hundred delegates representing unions throughout the United States and Canada are present. The convention will continue ten days. [illegible] company to find changes. The out of work benefit [illegible] of insurance laws relating to the union label on the Pacific coast, also one for printed matter for the Dominion of Canada and various other amendments to the constitution will probably be also adopted.

French Republicans Ar[illegible].

PARIS, September 19.—M. Rouvier, the premier will deliver a political discourse before the reopening of the chamber of deputies. This discourse will be a reply to the recent manifesto of the Count of Paris. Several extremist deputies propose initiating a movement in the chamber of deputies for the expulsion from France of all Orleanist and Bonapartist princes. Deputies Basly and Camelinat will again propose that all property of the above mentioned princes that can be discovered in France shall be confiscated.

THE RED FLAG.

Thousands of Anarchists Assemble in New York

To Protest Against Execution of the Condemned.

Herr Most Fails to Profit by Their Example.

And Indulges in an Incendiary Harangue.

An Anarchist Meeting.

NEW YORK, September 19.—Cooper Union was packed to-night with anarchists and socialists. The audience was boisterously bent and excited to protest against the hanging of the Chicago anarchists. Ushers wearing red ribbons on their lapels handed every person who entered the hall a copy of the inflammatory proclamation which was distributed on the street the latter part of last week declaring that the condemned anarchists should never be executed. Many women were in the hall and they all wore red ribbons and displayed on [illegible] Their [illegible].

The notes of the Marseillaise were struck up by the band and prolonged wild cheering followed. The noise was drowned by the voice. Pictures of condemned anarchists looked down from the front platform. They were draped with red and black and wreathed with [illegible]. A black and red banner stood in the rear of the stage. On the platform were Herr Most, Walter Vrooman, Colonel Hinton of the Leader, Mrs. Black, Mrs. Barthels and 300 others. "Vive Herr Most" greeted the chief as to the tune of the "Marseillaise" he stepped upon the platform with a red rose in his button hole and slouched hat pulled down over his eyes.

Vrooman was chosen chairman. In his speech he said if the Chicago brethren had said anything that was wrong it was no reason they should hang. There was a great conspiracy among the rich, [illegible] Justice, not mercy, was demanded. Vrooman presented a set of resolutions at the close of his speech which met with the approval of the crowd. They condemned the sentence of the anarchists as murder and a crime against civilization, the outcome of a conspiracy to crush free speech. Workingmen of America would be untrue to themselves if they allowed such an outrage to be perpetrated. A contribution from the audience netted $[illegible] for the cause.

The hero of the night was Herr Most. "Friends and anarchists," said he, "is it unlawful to have free speech in this country? What are these men guilty of? Are they thieves or murderers?" (Cries of "No, no!") They fought against murdering police and robbing capitalists. Seven police were killed and they want seven of our brothers [illegible]. You cannot allow that hanging to take place. Arm yourselves and for every drop of blood that is spilled from our friends let it cost a human life. I am not alone an anarchist but also a revolutionist. Capitalists shall be the first to suffer. No one shall escape his just doom. Twelve jurors, judges, detectives and spies sleep very soundly at present. Let them beware. [Wild yells and cheers from the crowd.] The time is approaching when we will be forced to use firearms. It must come so be prepared. [Wild fans of cheers.] "I warn them not to take the lives of our martyrs in Chicago. I demand that they be set free. Let there be a social revolution." Ehrer, Shevitsch and others made speeches of a similar character.

Widows of the Anarchists' Victims.

CHICAGO, September 19.—[illegible] persons interviewed by the press regarding the affirmation of the verdict in the anarchist cases by the supreme court at Ottawa there are four who naturally have a deeper interest in the outcome of the celebrated trial than the millions of readers both in this and other countries who so eagerly watched every phase of this greatest of all [illegible]. They are the widows, patient suffering women, of the officers who lost their lives at the Haymarket riot on that ill fated night of May 4th. Of the seven men who died from injuries received at the riot, four, John B. Barrett, Thos. Redden, Timothy Flavin and Nels Hanson, were married. Interviews with the four women published to-day show no sympathy on their part with the movement for commutation of the death sentences.

The statement of Mrs. Redden faithfully reflects the views of the other women. She said: "I am not an extremist in the matter of punishment, but if the law is right and these condemned men come within its pale they should be served as the justice and supreme court have decided. The suffering of my husband at the county hospital were such as I hope no other human being will have to endure. For two weeks day and night I sat beside him and the sight of him slowly dying so horrible a death all but turned my mind. It was then my hair began to turn gray. If my husband had killed an anarchist I venture to say that wife [illegible] blood. This however I do not desire. All I care to say is let the law take its course.

Mexican Politics.

CITY OF MEXICO, September 19.—El Combate, the organ of the army officers is giving much space to sharp attacks on the Jesuits printing what are alleged to be secret instructions to members of the order and charging them with conspiracy against liberal governments everywhere. The latter anti-clerical tone of El Combate is attracting much attention, and as it expresses the sentiment of the military leaders in the recent controversy regarding the conduct of Maximillian at Queretaro it has served to bring the liberal and clerical parties into a hostile attitude. The patriotic celebrations last week were made more than commonly enthusiastic to express the unity of the liberal

They next looted [illegible] in the vicinity and bombarded windows and police [illegible]. Black from Chicago with the papers in the case. I expect him here on Wednesday. Whether we take the case to the United States supreme court or not depends upon my conference with Captain Black and examination of the record."

The Pool Approved.

DENVER, September 19.—From advices at headquarters of the Colorado Cattle Growers' association it is learned that western cattle growers very generally commend the plan of relief presented by the American Beef pool by having Armour & Co. slaughter and market their cattle at nominal charges per head. VISITING EDITORS.

The Members of the National Editorial Association

Entertained by the Colorado Springs Board of Trade.

A Pleasant Drive and a Delightful and Enjoyable Feast.

Resolutions Adopted at a Meeting of the Association.

The National Editorial association whose membership [illegible] every state of the [illegible] visited this city yesterday as the [illegible] of the [illegible]. It had been [illegible] expected that the visitors would not arrive [illegible] until [illegible] Sunday afternoon, but late [illegible] was received to the effect that they would arrive at Manitou Sunday [illegible]. The change in the programme was made their arrival at Manitou [illegible] was due to the fact that the visitors on over the Midland to Manitou instead, and [illegible] Sunday was given up. The party arrived at Leadville on Saturday and left for Manitou over the Colorado Midland railroad on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. They were accompanied by the following officials of the road: General Passenger Agent Chas. S. Lee, Passenger Agent S. N. Nye and Mr. Horace Bell, who has charge of the literary bureau of the road.

The ride over the new road both from Leadville to Buena Vista and through South park was greatly enjoyed. The day was all that could be desired and every convenience was afforded the excursionists by the officers of the road. At Idlewild near the western entrance to Eleven Mile canon a substantial lunch was furnished the party by the railroad company, through Mr. E. P. Clark, who has charge of the eating house at that station.

The journey through Eleven Mile [illegible] and picturesque scenery in the canon elicited more than one expression of admiration and surprise. After leaving the canon the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, By the members of the National Editorial association on train September 18th, 1887, that besides their general obligation to the Colorado Midland railway for a ride over one of the most perfectly constructed and luxuriously equipped railroads in the entire country through some of the most magnificent and impressive scenery in the mountain state, [illegible] in a special sense indebted to General Passenger Agent Charles S. Lee and to Mr. Horace Bird editor of that able and influential journal the "Colorado Midland," for courtesies and attentions that have greatly increased the enjoyment of their trip from Leadville to Manitou.

Resolved, That the special thanks of the National Editorial association are hereby extended to Mr. Charles S. Lee [illegible].

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be furnished to the Denver papers with a request for their publication, and that another copy be forwarded to Mr. Bird to appear in the next issue of the able journal aforesaid.

Cascade Canon was reached shortly before three o'clock and the party were here treated to a substantial collation provided for them by the citizens of the new town at the recently opened hotel. After walking some distance up the canon and admiring the many beauties of this now famous mountain resort, the members of the association were called to order in front of the hotel by the president Mr. C. H. Jones. In a graceful speech of five minutes duration he extolled the many beauties of the place and expressed his pleasure at the reception which had been accorded the association. He gave voice to the feelings of the entire party by proposing the following preamble and resolutions which were adopted heartily and without a single dissenting voice:

WHEREAS, The members of the National Editorial association have been favored with the opportunity of visiting the famous Cascade canon with its towering environment of majestic mountain scenery and its endless succession of [illegible] and nautical cascades, and

WHEREAS, The officials of the Colorado Midland railway represented by Mr. S. N. Nye and the residents of Cascade represented by Mr. D. Severy have placed the visiting delegates under obligations by their courteous and generous hospitality; therefore

Resolved, That the sincere thanks of the association are due and are hereby tendered to Mr. D. Severy, the citizens of Cascade, Mr. S. N. Nye and the Colorado Midland Railway company.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the secretary and published in the report of the committee covering the Colorado tour of the National Editorial association.

After the adoption of the resolutions Mr. Daniel Severy, president of the Cascade Land and Town company, made a few remarks expressive of the pleasure of the citizens in being honored with a visit from so distinguished a body. He referred to the coming prosperity of Cascade and invited the members of the association to revisit the town at a future date when they would see one of the most pleasant summer resorts in the Rocky Mountain region.

It was nearly six o'clock before the party left Cascade for Manitou which was reached shortly before seven o'clock. The trip down the pass was regarded as one of the finest rides that they had experienced since leaving Denver. The thorough condition of the roadbed and the equipment of the road were themes of general comment and remark.

Upon learning that the association would reach Manitou Sunday afternoon, the citizens of that place determined to give the visitors a cordial and hearty reception. When the train reached the depot the Firemen's band from this city was on hand to receive them, together with the following gentlemen: [illegible] Mayor Hulbert of Manitou [illegible] committee of the [illegible] M. A. [illegible] W. A. [illegible] H. D. W[illegible] H. [illegible] and a large number of the citizens of Manitou [illegible] to [illegible] distance [illegible]. Although Mr. and Mrs. Nichols had a very short notice of the coming of the excursionists, yet they prepared a very elegant repast for them at the Cliff [illegible] when they reached the hotel. The Manitou bath house was thrown open to them and nearly all the party availed themselves of the opportunity thus presented for testing the refreshing and bracing qualities of Manitou's mineral waters.

Yesterday morning preparations were made on the part of our citizens to entertain the visitors. Carriages were obtained at most of the livery stables and a number of citizens furnished their own private conveyances. Before the carriages conveying some of the members of the Colorado Springs board of trade had reached Manitou many of the visiting editors employed their time in visiting the Iron Springs, Ute pass and the Cave of the Winds. Before entering the carriages for their drive to Colorado Springs and Cheyenne canon President Jones of the association offered the following resolutions which were carried by a unanimous and hearty vote:

WHEREAS, Th[illegible] through their mayor and reception committee have afforded to the visiting delegates of the National Editorial association an opportunity to visit their beautiful mountain surrounded town and inspect its attractions, therefore

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the secretary and incorporated into the official record of observations to be printed in connection with the Colorado excursion of the National Editorial association.

Business in Texas must be woefully dull. A few days ago road agents having robbed the passengers on the Lockhart & Luling stage, went so far as to steal the driver's Waterbury watch. The Texas papers are in despair.

From Bombay it is reported that in Oudh during last May 31,395 people died from cholera. This should make an opening for [illegible] English colonists. A little attention to sanitary regulations would make a great difference in the death rate.

Commissioners of the New York state reservation at Niagara Falls have taken steps to put down some of the abuses and extortions which have made the place so notorious for a series of years. The great number of newly wedded pairs who made it their Mecca [illegible] contributed to the birth of the [illegible] impositions which have been so long practiced on a long enduring public.

The result of the election in New York will be watched with especial interest on account of the candidacy of Col. Fred Grant as secretary of state on the republican ticket. It is one of the [illegible] of politics, but almost all the papers which mention the subject [illegible] or defeat will have on Bob Lincoln's [illegible] idential boom. The only objection seems to be that both had illustrious fathers and yet it is undoubtedly that Lincoln's success will be considerably influenced by the result of the New York election.

How the Maracaibans Live.

Dr. W. F. Hotcomb in American Magazine.

Going ashore early before sunrise, our first visit was made to the market place to see what Maracaibans live upon. A better and a cheaper market would be hard to find. Excellent beef, goat pork and fowls averaged ten cents a pound, and all varieties of tropical fruits abounded at corresponding prices. Tied together in bunches were great green lizards two or three feet long, with brown [illegible] heads of eyes. They snapped at us like dogs as we passed, and when teased with a stick clung to it like bull terriers. The [illegible] were iguanas, whose delicious white flesh is eagerly eaten by all classes. It tastes like chicken, but is more delicate. Of course considerable hunger would be needed to make them appetizing to a stranger who should recognize them in a stew. Further on an animal with head and tail like a rat [illegible] or roasted.

Monkeys were scarce in the market, and the old school book tale of travelers making use of them to get cocoanuts from lofty trees [illegible]

It city was reached shortly before [illegible] o'clock and the visitors were [illegible]

Nata Cheyenne canon were reached a few minutes [illegible] one o'clock and the party at once proceeded to enjoy the [illegible]. The first matter which engaged their attention was the satisfying of the inner man. Abundant provision had been made for this purpose and Mr. Mesrve, of the firm of Mesrve and Kamonz, proprietors of The Antlers, was on the ground with a corps of assistants to serve the bounteous and [illegible] spread of collation that had been prepared especially for the party by the cooks of The Antlers. The lunch was served in a large grove and while the delighted guests were busily engaged in discussing it the Fireman's band, which was stationed near the party on a slight eminence, discoursed several excellent selections, which called forth hearty applause. A New England editor said that the band was the best organization of its kind that he had heard since leaving home. A pleasant feature of the luncheon was a liberal supply of Manitou water which was furnished the party through the liberality of the Manitou Mineral Park & Bath company.

A [illegible] the wants of the inner man had been amply satisfied the visitors [illegible] through the grove. On all sides could be heard expressions of admiration and wonder at the beautiful and magnificent scenery of the canon, and all were loth to leave when the time for re-entering their conveyances had arrived. Previous to their departure from the canon President Jones called the members of the association together in the grove. He stated that words were but a feeble method of expressing the feelings of [illegible] and thanks which he and the members of the association felt towards the citizens of Colorado Springs [illegible] cheerfully and liberally extended to them. As words sometimes soon pass away and are forgotten, he proposed [illegible] lasting means of testifying their appreciation of the courtesies shown them by our citizens.

Whereas, The citizens of Colorado Springs, headed by their mayor [illegible] to the visiting members [illegible] National Editorial association [illegible] of the most beautiful scenery that Colorado presents, including the scene of rugged beauty, the Garden of the Gods, Glen [illegible] with its secluded charm and that [illegible] of all true lovers of the sublime [illegible] in nature, the Cheyenne [illegible] therefore [illegible] That we hereby extend our [illegible] heartfelt thanks to Mayor Dow and the citizens he represents for their generous and delightful courtesies.

[illegible] That after seeing Colorado Springs with its wide streets embowered [illegible] the rippling streams fed by [illegible] mountain streams that flow [illegible] beside its sidewalks, its palatial [illegible] and its cozy and elegant homes [illegible] of its dry and [illegible] climate, we can easily understand [illegible] pleasure resort and predict [illegible] fame will grow and its prosperity increase beyond any present [illegible] of its citizens.

Resolved, That our thanks are especially [illegible] to the board of trade and the [illegible] committees for [illegible] of the [illegible] town in the [illegible] recesses of the dark [illegible]

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread on the secretary's minutes and [illegible] in the official report of our [illegible]

The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Colonel C. W. Styles of Texas, being [illegible] said that words were the only available means at that time for expressing his feelings of pleasure, and appreciation of the many kindnesses that had been shown the association by the citizens of Colorado Springs. He hoped that in the future a deeper bond of friendship would exist between [illegible], and that an opportunity would be offered all the members of the association to express their thanks in a more [illegible] and lasting manner. In conclusion he proposed three cheers for the citizens of Colorado Springs which [illegible] given in an enthusiastic and hearty [illegible]

Hon. F. B. Ewing, editor of the Jefferson City (Mo.) Tribune and ex-consul general to Mexico, is visiting in the city. He pronounces Colorado Springs the most attractive city west of the Mississippi river. Mr. Ewing is a member of the prominent Missouri family of that name, and is a writer whose graceful literary efforts have received wide-spread recognition.

A delegation of Kansas Odd Fellows on their way to attend the national encampment at Denver, passed through the city on a special train yesterday afternoon. The party completely filled ten coaches and included the celebrated G. A. R. Flambeaux Club and Union [illegible] of Topeka. The train was met at the depot here by the following reception committee from Denver and the state: J. R. Williams, George Phelps, J. T. D[illegible], M. [illegible], L. K. [illegible] and William Arnold.

The two renowned Spartan athletes J. G. Wells and F. N. Whitehead contested in a [illegible] yard foot race last evening on Tejon street. The crowd that witnessed the struggle was somewhat limited in numbers, though brimful of enthusiasm and excitement. Mr. Wells having reduced his avoirdupois considerably during the past few months had an immense advantage over his opponent and won the race, beating his rival about [illegible] yards. A deadly feud has now arisen between these two Græco-Roman gladiators which time can barely heal.

Prof. George N. Marden of Colorado college will deliver the first lecture of the course to be given under the auspices of the Society of Christian Endeavor at the Congregational church this evening. His subject will be "The Arabs." The lecture will commence promptly at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that [illegible] who can will purchase season tickets for the course, so that it will not be necessary to dispose of single lecture tickets. The price of admission to the entire course has been placed at the exceedingly low rate of one dollar.

Next Monday evening at the opera house will be presented for the first time in this city the popular romantic drama "My Geraldine," with all the original scenery as presented in all the eastern [illegible]. During the play the following new songs will be sung: "Papa Loves Mamma and Me," and the "Vesper Bells," by Charles Warren. The company consists of some of the best talent in the country, including Mrs. Dion Boucicault, [illegible] Agnes Robertson. The [illegible] is taken from the Chicago Tribune: "A powerful drama admirably constructed, splendidly staged, and presented by a cast of superior merit."

A mass meeting of the colored citizens of Colorado Springs was held last evening, at which a political club to be known as the B. F. Crowell political club, was organized. It is the intention of these colored citizens to be fully organized for the November election and the campaign of 1888. It was stated at the meeting that they desired to be more [illegible] recognized by the party in its [illegible] mass meetings, and that they would like to send one or two of the members of the club as delegates to the republican county convention to be held [illegible]. Mr. C. R. Robinson acted as chairman of the meeting and Mr. S. [illegible] as secretary.

A farewell reception was tendered Rev. and Mrs. E. N. Barker at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Joslyn, on [illegible] street, yesterday afternoon, the occasion being their departure to Salt Lake City, where they will [illegible] their future home. The opportunity thus afforded for words of friendly [illegible] and farewell [illegible] by all in attendance. Over fifty persons [illegible] of Mr. and Mrs. Barker attended the reception. Mr. and Mrs. Joslyn performed the duties of host and hostess in [illegible] manner. As [illegible] of [illegible], we would mention a [illegible] Mrs. Barker, a purse for Mr. Barker and an autograph album [illegible] of the reception. [illegible]

Several of the Colorado Springs [illegible] will attend the reception of the [illegible] [illegible] of New York [illegible]. A special [illegible] the Denver & Rio Grande [illegible]

[illegible] the Topeka G. A. R. Flambeau Club of Topeka, Kas., will leave one of their [illegible] for [illegible] [illegible] Saturday night. An invitation [illegible] to all the [illegible] of the city and [illegible] friends to accompany the party. As this is a notable week in Denver on account of the national annual encampment of the Odd Fellows, [illegible] other than those mentioned will be furnished.
